Tire Industry In Effort To Keep Up Demand

"With 42,000,000 motorists taking to the highways in the greatest vacation season in history, a portion of the four-year delayed demand for tires is coming into the market with the result that the tire industry, even at its present peak production pace, is hard taxed to keep up."

J. W. McGovern, vice president and general manager of the United States Rubber Company Tire Division, made this statement on his arrival in Los Angeles today. With F. B.

CANNING DON'T

Never open jars at end of processing to refill with liquid. It's explained by home economists that loss of liquid from the jar does not affect the keeping quality of home-canned food. If the jar is opened it must be reprocessed to prevent spoilage.

Davis Jr., chairman of the company, will inspect its Pacific Coast manufacturing facilities, including the Torrance U. S. Rubber plant, during his stay. The tire executive cited the improvements made by rubber chemists in synthetic rubber as a major contributing factor and enumerated many recent engineering developments. One of these, the development of "2200" denier rayon cord, provides a stronger carcass that reduces blowouts and controls rupture spread, an important factor in tire safety and wear, he said.

The Butyl synthetic rubber tube was stressed by McGovern as a major step forward in providing increased driving safety and general tire performance. Important advantages over natural rubber were given by the rubber official in explaining that Butyl, made in Torrance, is definitely superior to natural rubber as inner tube material.

Butyl rubber also has an excellent resistance to high temperatures, McGovern stated, adding that this attribute on inner tubes is most important for performance inside the hottest type of tires. In addition, Butyl also has superior tear resistance. However, the most spectacular advantage given is the fact that it holds air three to five times as long as natural rubber. This means constant pressure and less frequent tire inflation, he said.

As to tomorrow's tire, McGovern stated that the tire maker probably would use both natural and synthetic rubber in combination to provide the best possible product.

Tire cord made of fine steel wire was a promising possibility, said McGovern.

Charter Group Asked To Remain On School Job

wishes to thank all those citizens who by their individual and collective effort helped make this great victory possible."

Mrs. Mark Wright, member of the Charter Committee, said: "I am very happy that so many persons showed the interest they did in this election and that we were able to have the decisive response from the people on this issue, which means so much to Torrance and our children. We do not rest here, however, and much is to be accomplished to place the administrative setup of our Torrance school in operation, to the end that we may build the finest school system in California."

Mrs. Shidler said: "As a member of the charter committee, I certainly appreciate the cooperation of the people of Torrance, and we ought to be very grateful that this vital matter has been decided at last. We hope that the cooperation of the people of Torrance will not cease here but will continue until we have the best school system that can be provided with the resources of our community."

Carl Steele said: "One of my main interests in the committee was the schools. Under the present system, I did not believe that the children were getting a square deal in the way of an education. After the election, I am convinced that the majority of parents in Torrance who have children attending school here believe the same way I do. I appreciate the interest of these parents in the schools and the interest of the other citizens who went to the polls on this matter Tuesday. They had a democratic opportunity to express themselves and they did it with vigor. I am very happy at the outcome."

Acting Mayor W. H. Tolson said:

"The Charter Committee has done an excellent job and I know that a majority of the people of Torrance will agree with me in suggesting that the members of this group stay on the job until the Board of Education is elected and well organized. The first step is completed, with the decisive vote of the people in favor of the City Charter and control by the people of Torrance of the schools of this city. The big job is ahead. We will have the finest schools in California in a few years, and we hope that the same fine spirit shown by the people will be reflected in future activity in connection with the establishment of the Torrance Unified School District."

Councilman A. L. Jackson suggested, too, that the Charter Committee remain on the job pending the formation of the new school district. He said: "I am very well pleased with the reaction of the people toward the charter. I think the charter committee did a grand job, and I think that they should continue their work until the details of organizing the new Torrance school district are completed."

Councilman C. M. Gilbert said: "I am elated and enthused with this expression of the people. We have accomplished something which will mean much to the future of the community and the children of the city."
